

Hibiscus Dry Flower

Also known as carcade (karkade), Jamaican Flower, a plant with colorful flowers, has been used for decorative and medicinal purposes. People have used it to make extracts, teas, and supplements, and considered a natural herbal product.

Hibiscus grows in tropical and subtropical regions, including China, Thailand, Sudan, Nigeria, and Mexico. Flowers, seeds, leaves, and stems are used in cooking, cosmetics, and medicine. The flower is 100% organically grown in Sudan, and also the world's best Roselle comes from Sudan.

Hibiscus specification

Humidity 15% max Vitamin C 50 – 100 mm per 100 g, protein 5% maximum, nitrate 41% maximum ash and salt 7% minimum, impurities 2% maximum sugars

Mm grams per 100 mm gram bark 12% carbohydrate %15 1.5

Total acids - 25% - 30%

Natural Color Red - Light Red.